GANS BEATS HERMAN

TONOPAH, Nevada, January 1.—Joe Gans, the lightweight champion of the world, won the fight here today from Kid Herman in the eighth round. He knocked Herman out.

Both Herman and Gans weighed in under 123 pounds. There were only 2500 people present, many being kept away by the snowstorms which prevailed. It was snowing at the time of the fight. Jack Welsh acted as referee. Jeffries was to have refereed, but probably could not reach Tonopah on account of the storms.

This was Gans' first fight since defeating Battling Nelson. Kid Herman was considered the most likely man to lower Baltimore Joe's colors.

"The Ghetto Champion," as Herman is called, has the two years' flight of his way into the first flight of lightweight boxing. His strenuous tactics in the ring have made him a favorite with followers of the boxing game.

Gans announced a short time ago that, providing he beat Herman, he would retire from the ring.

LA PALOMA GOES ASHORE

La Paloma, Clarence W. Macfarlane's crack yacht, which took part in the race for the Trans-Pacific Cup last year, was driven ashore in Pearl Harbor early yesterday morning when the gale was at its height.

Macfarlane came into town yesterday to get a heavy anchor with which to prevent her going further aground.

The yacht is reported to be resting on a mud-flat, apparently undamaged.

The yacht La Paloma is still stuck in the mud at Pearl Harbor, notwithstanding that great efforts have been made to float her.

Clarence Macfarlane took wrecking tackle down to the lochs on Wednesday, but all the strain that could be exerted moved the craft only an infinitesimal degree.

Tomorrow Alex. Lyle and some other members of the yacht club will take down more tackle and another effort will be made to pull her off.

The Spray also remains aground.

PROTEST IS WITHDRAWN

The protest lodged by the Y. M. C. A. soccer team against the Diamond Heads was heard last night by the delegates to the league. The question was whether Spaulding of the Y. M. C. A. team had a right to come into the game in the second half, after having been absent in the first half. The Christians did not play him in last Saturday's game owing to objection by the Diamond Heads.

Present were Messrs. Bruns, Grune, S. Chillingworth, Gray, J. Catton, Fernandez, Hand, J. Anderson, McGill, H. F. Beardmore, Churton, Waldron, Cockburn.

Churton, the Y. M. C. A. captain, stated that one reason why he lodged the protest was because he wanted a ruling for the future.

Referee Waldron was of the opinion that there was a local rule which would have prevented Spaulding playing.

He made no ruling in the matter. There was nothing in the general rules to have prevented Spaulding coming into the game.

No local rule could be found and it was the impression of many present that there had been a national rule prohibiting players coming into the second half who had not taken part in the first half, but that it was defunct.

It was made evident that the Y. M. C. A. should have played Spaulding and taken the chance of a protest if they won. As things stood they practically protested against their own free action in the matter.

Gray moved that the protest be thrown out. J. Catton seconded the motion.

Cockburn suggested that the Y. M. C. A. be given a chance to withdraw their protest, as there had been a misunderstanding on both sides.

Captain Churton withdrew the protest and from now on, as there is no rule to the contrary, a team may keep a player until the very end of the game before putting him in, if foolish enough to do so.

J. W. Waldron stated that he had written to the Athletic News for light on the matter.

It was decided to play the postponed New Year games next Saturday and to set the remainder of the schedule a week back. There will be three more Saturdays of soccer, the final game being Champions vs. Rest of the League.

There is some talk of a series of combination games between Diamond Head-Y. M. C. A. and Malle-Punahou teams.

McFADDEN OUTPOINTED

The Call has the following to say of the bout between Johnny Murphy and Jack McFadden, which took place recently in San Francisco:

Johnny Murphy outpointed Jack McFadden cleverly after four hard fought rounds, and should have had the decision. Both judges gave it to Murphy, but the fighters had a private agreement that it would be a draw if both were on their feet. Murphy is a snappy hard hitter and his blows punish. He scored with left and right to head and dropped McFadden to the mat. McFadden came back with a short right to the head, which was the only blow of force given by him during the bout. After that Murphy did it all his own way.

THE HOODOO FIRE BOX

Everybody is familiar with the respect paid to the "thirteen" superstition in hotels and steamers, by eliminating the unlucky number from the enumeration of chambers and state-rooms. In those cases the cause is no doubt generally a strictly business one. It is not so much that hotel keepers and steamship owners are superstitious as that they recognize the wide prevalence of the weakness in the general public. So many people will not voluntarily occupy a room numbered 13. It is easy to avoid trouble by having no room with that number.

Perhaps the Honolulu Fire Department furnishes the first instance under the American flag, if not any national banner, of stamping the thirteen superstition with official recognition. This it has done in the late readjustment of signal boxes in the electric fire alarm system.

From the installation of the system several years ago box No. 13 was located at Fort and Queen streets. A good many alms have originated from this box, some of them false. As to the latter it is what might have been expected from the location of the box at one of the most deserted points in town after nightfall excepting for staggering sailors and other waterfront habits. The sight of the box must have made the fingers of many a stray rollerster itch to have some fun at the expense of the fire ladders.

Whether from the tally of the record or not, the department concluded that box 13 gave it more running for its payroll than any other. Therefore, in the new schedule box 13 is located at Beretania and Alakea streets. This being within sight and stone's throw of the central fire station, it is hoped that the firemen will have the hoodoo under better control than before.

At the former location of the hoodoo the new number is 31. It may happen that the hoodoo will read backward like Chinese writing and the last state of Fort and Queen street be more fiery than the first. Perhaps this never occurred to Chief Engineer Thurston.

Why the 13 could not have been dropped out altogether after the manner of hotels and steamers, is another query suggested.

It is reported that if the hoodoo does not behave itself well in its new place it will be removed to the interior of the central station. There it would be dedicated to the Hawaii Promotion Committee as an attraction to tourists. Yet, unless a man was detailed to watch it all the time, at many an unholy hour it might be expected to arouse the town with the sonorous bleats of the fire whistle counting "1-1-1-1."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

I commenced using it and have not had since then the first symptom of headache. My appetite is splendid, and I perform my duties with a cheerfulness and energy that surprise myself. I take pleasure in telling all my friends of the merit of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and the happy results of its use."

HUSBAND'S BARBARITY

Amee Kapua tells a tale of cruelty and outrage which would disgrace the Solomon Islands in her libel for divorce against John P. Kapua. The parties were married only on May, 30, 1906, and the wife declares that at frequent intervals ever since their marriage her husband has violently and without cause or provocation assaulted and beaten her, slapping her with his open hand, striking her with his fist, kicking and otherwise mistreating and injuring her.

As a result of such treatment, the woman says, she has been several times so injured, bruised and disfigured as to require her remaining in retirement until the bruises and livid spots caused by such assaults should become effaced and cured.

She charges in particular that he came home drunk on the night of December 15, and after assaulting her with hands and feet as she lay in bed, kicked her out of bed and compelled her to dress and leave the house at 12:30 o'clock in the morning of the 16th. Having turned his wife out he locked the door and then took some of her clothes, bought with her own money, out of a trunk and destroyed them.

He refused his wife readmission to their home and she walked nearly a mile to the house of a friend, where she secured an escort to a lodging house at which she procured a room for temporary use.

Because of her treatment as already described, the woman determined to return to the home of her parents at Honokaa, Hawaii, and with this object in view went to the home of a neighbor adjoining her own home to remove some clothing that, during her husband's absence on the 15th, she had taken out of the house. On her arrival her husband rushed upon her, dragged her into the neighbor's house, thrust her into a chair and there literally sat upon and imprisoned her until after the sailing hour of the steamer Kinau. Then he dragged her into their own home and guarded her there as a prisoner until the morning of December 19, when he left for his work.

She immediately took refuge in a reputable lodging house, where, on Christmas eve in her absence, her husband went and kicked in the door of her room which had been left locked by her.

Mrs. Kapua says her husband is a plumber by trade and ever since their marriage has been constantly employed at wages of not less than $14 a week, and for many weeks past $18 a week, but that he has been in the habit of dissipating his earnings by shooting craps and other forms of gambling, and has utterly neglected and refused to supply her with any money to buy clothes, or for other necessary purposes, and has also neglected during much of the period to provide their home with suitable or necessary food. She had done sewing for hire, yet had often gone hungry.

She prays for absolute divorce, for payment by libel of temporary alimony, attorney's fee and costs, also for a restraining order to prevent her husband from molesting her pending the suit.

Judge De Bolt has signed a restraining order, strictly commanding John P. Kapua forthwith to desist and during the pendency of the action to refrain from any molestation of, or interference with the person, or locomotion, or occupation of Amee Kapua, under such pains and penalties as the court shall see fit to inflict for any violation of the terms of the order.

C. W. Ashford is attorney for libellant.

The structure will be rebuilt and the light reestablished as soon as practicable.

SAVE TIME AND WEAR

Some convenient and handsome new furniture has been placed in the Registry of Conveyances. It is designed to save both the wear of record books and the time of searchers of records.

Most conspicuous of the articles is a quadruple book rack or cabinet, having two sections facing on each of its two opposite fronts. On either side, below the sections, is a sloping desk for examination of the books. The four sections are fitted with shelves adjustable for different thicknesses of books. Thus, as at present arranged, there are 23 shelves on one side and 24 on the other. Brass rollers are provided to pull the books over and push them back again without friction destructive of bindings. Sliding fronts with locks cover the sections when not in use. The cabinet is beautifully finished in enamel varnish.

In the sections alphabetical index books, arranged in periods of years from the famous Land Commission time, and other bound references are deposited.

There is a single cabinet of the same style as the quadruple one, arranged for thinner books, upon the counter. Then, standing near the door, is a cabinet of six lockers for local firms that have much to do with conveyancing.

Along the wall on the King street side, the whole length of the office, six sections of spacious pigeon holes have been built, having ten compartments to a section. They are marked "1 to 25," etc., ending with "126 to 150." As yet they are empty.

Registrar Merriam has introduced a great many improvements since he took office, of which these latest devices are not the least useful.

THRUM'S ANNUAL FOR PRESENT YEAR

Thrum's old and reliable publication, "The Hawaiian Annual," styled "The Recognized Book of Information about Hawaii," has just been issued for 1907. It is one of the most complete cyclopedias of matters relating to Hawaii that is published and is up to the standard set by Mr. Thrum in the thirty-three years since the first issue appeared.

Among the features of the present number is Mr. Thrum's list of heliaus (Hawaiian temples) and helau sites throughout the Hawaiian Islands, and a long and interesting article of comments on each one. It is the most complete list thus far compiled and represents much personal attention to the subject, involving months of research and inspection. He states that, in all the heliaus visited on the islands of Oahu and Kauai, there are no two alike in plan. In the majority of cases heliaus were either walled stone structures or open platform structures. They were mostly leveled and stone paved.

Other articles are: "Land Customs of Early Settlers in Hawaii"; "Comparative Mythology of the Pacific," by Rev. W. D. Westervelt; "Customs Table Review"; "Beautifying Honolulu"; "Kauai, the House of Human Bones"; "Hawaiian Pa-u Riders"; "Marine Casualties for 1906"; "More Water Development," treating of the Kohala ditch and the Waihi power plant enterprises and others being developed; "Bully Hayes in Hawaii," by Arthur Johnstone; "Will Hawaii Redeem Herself?" being an article on the liquor question; "Tradition of the Wizard Stones Kapae-mahu" (courtesy of Jas. H. Boyd); "Development of Wahi-ana," by W. B. Thomas; "Retrospect for 1906"; "Jubilee Number of the Advertiser"; "Lahaina of Early Days"; "Hawaiian Folk-Lore in Book-Form" (referring to a forthcoming compilation by Mr. Thrum, to be published by A. C. McClure & Co., Chicago). "Kali-lute Kanikawai," is a popular Kaula legend, translated for the annual. J. K. Farley contributes "Notes on Maui-Lili Pool, Kohala."

A list of local lighthouses is given; also a list of sugar plantations, mills and agencies; Hawaiian sugar crops, 1901-1906; postal service; court calendar; reference list of principal articles in the Hawaiian Annual, 1875 to 1906. There is a wealth of statistics concerning the islands—distances, elevations, record steamship passages, population, churches, schools, etc., being among the subjects.

"The publisher contemplates omitting hereafter the almanac feature of the Annual," a footnote to the first almanac page states, "unless its continuance is specially desired by a majority of its patrons. With the changes of the past thirty years and the general issue of calendars nowadays at the opening of each year, the almanac is not the local necessity it was, hence it is thought best to discontinue it and strengthen the Annual in its other features of reference character."

THE PALOLO ROAD.

Editor Advertiser: In your issue of this morning you quote L. L. McCandless as saying that "there ought to be no trouble about getting the money appropriated for the Palolo road now if it is there. The item is $10,000 for completion of Palolo road." Mr. McCandless' statement is misleading, as this item covers only the Palolo belt road. There was a particular appropriation by the last Legislature of $4000 for the Waiomao-Pukele homesteads in Palolo Valley and this appropriation has been cut out by the Governor arbitrarily.
